

Sir/Maam,

I have been an XM Radio subscriber for over 2 years and admit that I have not since listened to the traditional AM/FM radio. Simply because of the quality of the programming and the up to date information I get from XM and the same old thing over and over from AM/FM. The XM stations I listen to daily are always up to date and on top of news, weather and other important things as well as the music I want to listen to NOT WHAT YOU WANT ME TO HEAR!!!! I think that the possibility of restricting what listeners want to listen to is the same reason i dont listen to the AM/FM anymore. The government sees the satellite radio developing into something of monetary value and they want to either get a piece of the action or keep it from happening at all. Im sure that the people who started all the fuss are XM listeners too but want to make a buck so they stirr up a storm with it till they get paid off. I paid 200+ dollars for my system plus 10 dollars a month so i dont have to listen to what you want me to hear and the ability to listen to the same station as i travel. If you restrict what we are able to hear maybe we need new people in legislation. I dont listen to the weather or the traffic on the XM but if i need to why should it be anyones business what i listen to? if you do keep XM from broadcasting the weather and traffic are you going to keep regular radio and the TV broadcasters from soing it as well? didnt think so, they keep your pockets full of money so you have to make a showing so they keep putting it in there...
